Marshall SMITH, 65, who moved from Rochester five years ago, died early Tuesday morning at his home in Bunker Hill, a victim of cancer from which he suffered for a long time. He was well known in the community, having lived for many years on a farm at the end of west Eleventh street, almost within the city limits. He is survived by three sons, Ed SMITH, of this city, and Noble [SMITH] and Grover SMITH, of Logansport, and four daughters, Mrs. Rose ISLER, Indianapolis, Mrs. Mabel LESTER and Miss Sheila SMITH, of Bunker Hill, and Miss Mary SMITH, of Galveston. Funeral services at Loree Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Burial at Rankin cemetery.

Among the persons from out of the city who were here Monday afternoon to attend the Henry PFEIFFER funeral service, were C. C. BEYER, of Kendallville, J. E. [J. E.?] BEYER, of Warsaw; H. O'KEEFE, of Chicago, secretary of the National Producers' Association, of which Mr. Pfeiffer had been president, Harvey BANTA, of Goshen, Carl CARLSON of South Bend, 12 members of the Logansport Rotary Club, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. FOGLESONG and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph FOGLESON, of Kewanna; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer BURTON, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. WYNN, and Mrs. Lavina WHITFIELD, of Lucerne.

A terrible accident saddened the usually happy New Year's advent for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Fred FENSTERMACHER, five miles northeast of Rochester, bringing as it did the death of their 20 months old son, Robert Owen FENSTERMACHER, who died Wednesday of burns sustained when he was scalded under a tub of hot water Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Fenstermacher was preparing to wash some clothes and had placed a washtub on a chair in the kitchen. She took a pail of scalding water from the stove and emptied it into the tub and stepped onto the back porch with the tub to fill it with cold water from the pump to cool her wash water.

The child was playing about the kitchen when the mother stepped out and in some manner, which will never be known, the little fellow caught hold of the tub and pulled it over onto himself.

The entire contents of the tub was precipitated over the baby, who was found pinned beneath the tub by Mrs. Fenstermacher when she returned to the kitchen a moment later.

Medical aid was summoned, but to no avail. The accident occurred shortly before eight o'clock Tuesday morning and the baby died soon after midnight of the same day. The child's body was horribly burned from the waist up and about half of its face also was scalded. The accident was made much more serious by the fact that the tub fell on top of the child and the stream from the scalding water was thus retained about its body.

Surviving are the parents, two brothers and three sisters.

In the early morning of Monday, January 28th, 1924, she departed this life, after only a few hours' illness, at the home of her son, Charles Richmond, on Monroe street, Rochester. She had but recently passed the 88th milestone. Had she lived until the 26th day of March, she and her husband would have celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary, as they were united in marriage on that date in 1854, in Kosciusko county.

Three children have preceded her in death, Alice [RICHMOND] and Frank [RICHMOND] in early childhood, and besides a daughter, Mrs. Viola KESSLER. The two surviving sons are Charles [RICHMOND], of Rochester, and George [RICHMOND], residing at Ford Wayne. Surviving also are the husband, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

About forty-five years ago, Mrs. Richmond, at the same time with her husband, united with the Methodist Episcopal church. This was at Palestine, under the ministry of Rev. Madison SWADENER. Mrs. Richmond was a good keeper of her home where she rendered loving service as a wife and a mother during a long life. Each year during the twenty-two years of residence in Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond have gone back to the old cemetery and the church in Mentone on Decoration Day. They have many friends in both these towns, and for years in Rochester they have been held in high esteem as among the most upright and honored citizens. Here with her husband she united with the Grace Methodist Church where she continued a faithful and exemplary member until her death. Her long life has been marked by faithfulness, a distinction well won by years of loving service freely given to others in the home and the community.

An unidentified stranger, who had caused a disturbance in Athens by his peculiar actions, was shot and instantly killed at about 9:00 o'clock Tuesday evening about four miles east of Athens by Albert B. CHAMBERLAIN, night policeman. Chamberlain fired a bullet into or very close to the man's heart as the latter approached the officer with a small pocket knife threatening to take the life of Chamberlain.

The stranger, presumably a foreigner from his very broken English, first made his appearance in Athens at about six o'clock in the evening. He evidently had come down the Erie railroad tracks from the west and went to the old Rowe store on the street intersection and attempted to get in. The store has long since been closed and Walter CLEVINGER, passing by, said that the fellow was cursing and trying to force his way into the building.

A few minutes later he appeared in the Rowe store where he purchased a loaf of bread, paying for it with a nickle and five pennies. When he had left he stood on the outside for a minute and talked to himself, apparently in a rage and cursing about something.

His actions had attracted attention of people in the store and several of the young men followed him down the railroad tracks where he was seen to sit beside a box car on a siding just east of Athens and eat his bread and a piece of bologna.

The boys returned to the Rowe store and told Fred ROWE, owner, that the fellow was still talking to himself. Rowe summoned Sheriff KOCHENDERFER, who arrived at about 8:00 o'clock with Night Police "Bee" CHAMBERLAIN.

The authorities and several men in Athens started on a search for the man. Later two posses were organized, the sheriff leading one and Chamberlain the other.

Chamberlain, who was accompanied by Walter CLEVINGER, Dale RICHTER, Peter SAYGER, Charles McGEE and Lee MOONSHOWER, went east to the railroad crossing about four miles east of Athens, where the man was seen to leave the railroad and start north towards the Clem HAMMOND farm home.

Leaving the automobile Chamberlain started after the man on foot and called to him to halt; that he was under arrest. In the meantime Chamberlain had fired several shots into the air from his revolver to notify Sheriff Kochenderfer that the man had been located and also to try to intimidate the man into halting.

Finally, however, the stranger did stop and with a cloth sack in one hand, in which he carried his effects, and a pocket knife in the other, turned back towards Chamberlain, muttering: "Me kill police."

Chamberlain ordered him to halt, firing another shot at his feet and when the man failed to do so and continued to advance, the local officer, according to the statement of Clevenger who was close to him, said he would have to shoot him and fired point blank at the man. The fellow stood for a moment apparently dazed and then dropped over dead. He struggled after being placed in the car to be taken to Rochester, but it is believed that he died almost instantly.

The body was brought to Rochester where an inquest was held by Coroner Dow HAIMBAUGH. He exonerated Chamberlain, pronouncing the shooting "self defense."

The man was well built, about 50 years old and weighed about 155 pounds. He was blind in his left eye, partially bald, had brown hair and a brown mustache. He was dressed in blue denim overalls, a blue shirt, an old overcoat and wore heavy work shoes. In a gunny sack he carried two ears of corn, a piece of bread and bologna. The only means of identification was an Erie time table with some illegible writing in one corner and a piece of paper containing the inscription "Clark and Jackson, Room 743," evidently the address of a "flop house" in Chicago. The body is being held for further investigation into the man's identity.

The shooting is the first instance of an officer killing a man in Rochester since 1884 when Tuck NEFF was shot while attempting to rob the Hoover furniture store.

Thursday, May 15, 1924

The identity of the crazed Italian who was shot and killed by Night Police "Bee" CHAMBERLAIN Tuesday evening east of Athens will probably always be a mystery, according to developments Thursday. Coroner Dow HAIMBAUGH, who communicated with the Chicago police regarding the stranger, learned that the address the man carried with him was that of the Royal Italian consulate in Chicago, but inquiries there developed the fact that the consulate knew nothing of the man. It is believed that he carried the address merely as a memorandum. It is expected that the body will be kept here for a short time longer before being buried. In the meantime further verification of the man's state of mind was received from Loyal where it was said he acted as though demented, cursing people whom he met and threatening their lives. The man was known to Ed SHOBE of this city, but only by sight.

Friday, May 16, 1924

Two more reports have been forthcoming regarding the mysterious Italian shot and killed by Bee CHAMBERLAIN near Athens Tuesday evening.

One comes from Mrs. J. A. DIXON of the Mt. Zion neighborhood who has positively identified the man as one who was in her neighborhood on the first of the week causing similar disturbances to those he stated at Loyal and Athens.

This does not mean much, but the statement of Boyd HAYWARD of Akron that the man had spent two days in Akron affords the police a clue upon which to work. Hayward declared that the man slept in the basket factory at Akron and spent most of his time reading a Bible. He gave his name there as Hammond PETERSON and said he lived at Wabash. Authorities are investigating this report.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Jennie PIERCE, who died at the home of her son Perry LOWMAN, of Mishawaka, were held at 230 o'clock Friday afternoon at the United Brethren church, Rev. Noah McCOY in charge. Burial at the I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Saturday, May 17, 1924

Mrs. Mary FENSTERMAKER, aged 77, died at eight o'clock Friday evening at her home in Fulton of a complication of diseases and old age. She had been ill for six months. Surviving are three sons and one daughter. The husband, John FENSTERMAKER, died 10 years ago. Funeral services from the Fulton United Brethren church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial at the Rochester I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Monday, May 19, 1924

Another clue as to the identity of the man shot and killed last Tuesday by Albert CHAMBERLAIN, night police here, came Monday morning when Harley McCROSKEY, who resides near the Salem church, said the man had been at his home at noon Monday. McCroskey said the fellow ate dinner there and told them his name, but they could not remember it. He told the local people that he was a German, had a brother farming in Illinois, but that he himself always worked in factories and was seeking employment. Investigation of the clue was started immediately when word was forwarded to the Chicago police to try to locate the brother in Illinois. At Wabash authorities knew nothing of the man called PETERSON, which practically killed the clue from Akron to the effect that the dead man came from that city.

Mary HAIMBAUGH, daughter of David and Margaret HAIMBAUGH, was born in Fairfield County, Ohio, Sept. 23, 1846, and departed this life at Fulton, Indiana, May 16th, 1924, at the age of 77 years, 7 months and 23 days. At the age of seventeen she moved with her parents to Fulton county, Indiana, where she has since resided.

August 20, 1865, she was united in marriage to John A. FENSTERMAKER. To this union were born six children, four sons and two daughters. She was preceded in death by the husband, one son, Fred [FENSTERMAKER], and one daughter, Laura [FENSTERMAKER]. She leaves to mourn their loss, one daughter, Mrs. Orlando HORN of Talma, three sons, Zane W. [FENSTERMAKER] of Argos, Benton [FENSTERMAKER] of Fulton, and Ivan [FENSTERMAKER] of Niles, Michigan; nine grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and two sisters, Mrs. Katherine McCARTER, of Rochester, and Mrs. Arthur LYNCH, of Chicago; besides a host of other relatives and friends. At an early age she united with the Lutheran Church in Ohio, but at the time of her death, was a member of the U.B. church at Fulton, of which church she was faithful and attended as long as she was able. Always a devoted mother and a kind and helpful neighbor in time of need, she will be greatly missed. Although afflicted for some time, she kept a patient and cheerful disposition until the last.

Brief graveside funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon by Rev. W. J. A complication of diseases due to old age caused the death early Wednesday of Mrs. Sarah D. CHAMBERS, life long resident of Macy and adjacent neighborhood.

Jeremiah L. EDGINGTON, 65, a life long resident of Fulton county, died at about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the farm home northeast of Leiters in Richland township where he had been born and spent all of his days. He died alone of heart failure, according to verdict of Coroner Dow HAIMBAUGH, returned Tuesday morning following an inquest.

Mr. Edgington had been in ill health for the past five or six years, suffering from heart failure, and during the past year his condition had been serious. His daughter and Mr. Lee MARSHALL made their home with him and they were called to Plymouth Monday evening by the serious illness of a friend. When they returned at six o'clock Tuesday morning they found Mr. Edgington in bed, dead. From all appearances he had arisen early in the morning, dressed and built a fire and then, evidently suffering from an attack with his heart, had returned to his bed, fully dressed, where he died. He had been in his usual health Monday.

Gene McCLAIN, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McCLAIN of Main street, Culver, was fatally injured at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday forenoon when she darted in front of a Ford sedan driven by Mrs. Lawrence WADE.

The little McClain girl was going to the school and dashed out onto the crosswalk near the front of the Culver school just as Mrs. Wade drove up. It all happened so quickly that Mrs. Wade could not avoid running down the little girl. She stopped the car quickly. Unfortunately one wheel rested on the little one when the car was brought to a stop which probably made it worse than if the car had gone farther. The little girl was crushed about the abdomen and it is believed that internal injuries to vital organs were inflicted. Medical attention was summoned but the child was past any help and passed away in 20 minutes.

Noble HURST, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hurd HURST of Peru, former residents of Macy, was drowned Sunday noon at Mud Lake while in swimming. The youth who would have celebrated his 17th birthday today, (Monday), was in the water at the time with a number of other boys while the table was being spread on the shore nearby for a family reunion dinner.

Noble, according to his friends, had dived off the spring board at the Mud Lake bridge and had swam a short distance when he turned to his companion, Robt. McKEE, and told him that he would have to have help as he was tired out. He did not seem excited and the other boy started to help him. The water where they were is about 18 feet deep. Young Hurst apparently exhausted went under dragging his rescuer with him but for some reason or other loosened his hold and sank. Meanwhile the father, Hurd Hurst, who could not swim, from the bank seeing that something was wrong, obtained a boat and pushed rapidly to where his son went down. He said the body came to within two feet of the surface and then went down. Expecting it to come up again he waited but that was the last seen of the youth.

Leslie HENTGEN of Peru, who was undressing in a bath house nearby heard the commotion and hurried to the shore, dived in and searched for the body for several minutes. Finally he took the same course as the boy had and discovered it about where he went down and brought him to the shore. The Hurst boy had then been under about twenty minutes. Attempts at resuscitation failed and later Ray COOK of this city arrived with a pulmotor which was used without avail. Dr. H. O. SHAFER of this city was also called but pronounced the boy dead.

The young man was a student in high school at Peru and was known here, being related to Mrs. Bessie HURST, of this city. Hurd Hurst is also well known here, he being the 11th district Republican chairman. There are two sisters, also surviving. Dr. Dow HAIMBAUGH, coroner, was called to the scene and pronounced death due to accidental drowning.

Mrs. Elizabeth MORRIS, 88, of near Fulton, more familiarly known for years as "Grandma" MORRIS, died at her home one and a half miles southwest of that town, Wednesday morning after a lingering illness due to complications and old age. She had been in poor health all summer and had gradually become weaker. She had been feeble for some time before that and was almost blind. She was well known in community having resided there most of her life. Her husband, Eck MORRIS, preceded her in death.

James A. ALLISON, 65, prominent Fulton county farmer and a resident of Rochester and vicinity for more than 20 years, dropped dead Wednesday evening in South Bend where he was working on a teaming contract, according to word received by Rochester relatives.

The exact nature of Mr. Allison's death was not learned here up to Thursday afternoon as his son, John Allison, had not returned from South Bend where he expected to get the body and return to Rochester. John Allison went to South Bend Wednesday evening when he learned of the death, but they would not allow him to remove his father until a coroner's inquest could be held Thursday. That death was due to heart failure, however, there is but little doubt as Mr. Allison had been suffering from heart trouble for some time, although he had not been bedfast at any time.

Born at State Line, Indiana, September 4, 1858, Mr. Allison spent the greater portion of his life on a farm around Danville, Ill. He moved to Fulton county with his family 23 years ago and had lived around here since that time. Of recent years he had not farmed, but had been engaged in contracting work, operating a number of teams. Mrs. Allison died nine years ago.

Two children, a son, John ALLISON, of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Porter HAIMBAUGH, south of Rochester, survive.

Logansport, Aug. 7 -- After lying unconscious for several hours at a hospital here, Lawrence BAIRD, 19, and Darvin BAKER, 17, injured last night in an automobile wreck that cost the life of Eunice INSLEY, 18, their companion, were reported not to have been seriously injured. Florence KERN, 17, another member of the party, was uninjured. The Logansport Press carries the following account of the accident:

Miss Eunice INSLEY, 18, living a mile south of Fulton, was killed, and Lawrence BAIRD, 19 and Darvin BAKER, 17, were severely injured Wednesday evening at 8:30 when the Overland touring car driven and owned by Baker, crashed into an Armour truck on the Michigan road three and a half miles north of Logansport.

Miss Insley suffered a fracture of the skull. She died before an ambulance could reach the scene.

Baker and Bair sustained bad cuts and bruises and are confined to the St. Joseph hospital in Logansport. Baird was rendered unconscious by a blow on the forehead but regained consciousness later in the evening. Baker suffered a number of bumps about the head and a deep cut on his right forearm.

Miss Florence KERN, 17, sitting in the front seat with Baker, survived the experience without a scratch.

All live in or near Fulton.

The two young couples left Miss Insley's home about 8 o'clock with the intention of going to Rochester, according to her parents, but soon after changed their plans and decided to visit Logansport and attend a picture show.

It was considerable of a mystery just how the car happened to crash into the truck and Baker was unable to tell.

The party was driving south at a speed, witnesses estimate, at from 25 to 30 miles an hour, in passing one truck, a one-ton Ford, belonging to the Armour Creamery at Rochester, the driver, Tom BALLENGER of Logansport, turned back into the road too quickly and the top of his car scraped the side of the truck, and second truck, a one-ton Federal, was about a hundred feet to the rear.

The touring car was coming in the middle of the road, according to Eugene ROUCH of Rochester, the driver of the second truck, and suddenly swerved directly at him. Rouch says he was already at the grass line of the right side of the road, a fact which the truck tracks substantiate, and could do nothing but put on his brakes.

The touring car struck the truck almost squarely head-on. The Insley girl was thrown from her position in the rear seat against the end of the board on the sidegate of the right side of the truck, the corner of the board striking her in the left eye and penetrating to the brain.

The touring car did not turn over, nor was the truck thrown from the highway. The lighter machine was practically demolished, however. It was in the center of the road after the crash and until lifted from the spot to allow traffic to pass.

The body of the girl victim had been thrown from the back seat of the car to half-way back on the truck where the head struck the topmost board of the sidegate.

Baker remained at the wheel. Miss Kern, with him, was thrown to the road through the windshield, shattered by the impact, and was not hurt. Baird, in the rear seat with Miss Insley, said he didn't know what happened nor what became of him afterward until he found himself in the hospital.

There is heavy traffic on the Michigan road in the evening, and it was but a few minutes until a number of machine loads of people were lending assistance to the injured. The Chase ambulance was called to make a fast run with the Insley girl to the hospital where it was thought there might be some chance of retaining any spark of life that might remain.

A second trip was made for the two boys.

Dr. J. H. REED, who was summoned to the hospital, found that the young woman had been dead some time before his arrival and stated death had probably taken place but a few moments after the crash. He administered to the two young men.

The body was removed to Logansport, and later taken to the undertaking establishment at Fulton.

The parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. Otho INSLEY, went to Logansport ed to visit Logansport and attend a . . . [sic]

Tom BALLENGER, living at 317 Fifth street, Logansport, was driving the Ford truck. His story and that told by Rouch were corroborated by motorists who were near the place at the time of the accident. The trucks were loaded with 84 cans of cream, en route to the Rochester quarters of the Armour creamery. Roy FOLLETTE, manager of the Rochester station, went to Logansport last night to make his investigation into the affair. Neither of the truck drivers were ordered held by Acting Coroner M. B. STEWART.

Ralph DELEPLANO, Logansport mail carrier, was among the first to reach the scene of the accident after the collision. He was driving south and said the touring car had passed him a short distance out, proceeding at a speed declared to be less than 25 miles an hour. Dyrer McDOWELL, Logansport man, also was on the scene shortly after the wreck, and assisted in carrying the injured into a nearby farmhouse to await the arrival of the ambulance.

The rain which was falling heavily early in the evening, is thought to have been largely responsible for the accident.

The Insley girl is survived by her parents and one sister, Mrs. Ruth CRANE, living three miles north of Lucerne.

Darvin BAKER is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie BAKER, of west of Fulton. The family moved to that vicinity only a few months ago, from Michigan.

Lawrence BAIRD is the son of Mrs. William BAIRD, living in Fulton. Miss KERN is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John KERN of Fulton. Her father keeps a store there. The INSLEY family are former residents of Illinois. They moved to near Fulton about a year ago.

Dr. Stewart announced that he will hold his inquest Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the office of Dr. J. J. STANTON of Logansport.

Friday, August 8, 1924

Funeral services for the late James A. ALLISON, who dropped dead of heart failure in South Bend Wednesday evening, were held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the residence of John ALLISON, south Main street. Rev. D. S. PERRY in charge. Burial at the I.O.O.F. cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Eunice INSLEY, 18, victim of the automobile wreck on the Michigan road three miles north of Logansport, Wednesday evening, will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 from the residence of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. INSLEY, one mile south of Fulton. Burial will take place in the Fulton cemetery.

Darvin BAKER, 17, driver of the touring car, and Lawrence BAIRD, 19, who were injured, were able to leave the hospital and return to their homes in Fulton.

Eugene ROUCH, driver of the truck which was struck by the touring car, will probably be exonerated of the blame when Acting Coroner M. B. STEWART gives his verdict. ROUCH, employed by the Armour company at Rochester, said following the accident that he would willingly have driven the heavily loaded truck into the ditch to avoid the collision had it been possible for him to have done so. He said he was almost stopped when the crash came and previous to the mishap had been driving probably 18 miles an hour.

The coroner's inquest will be conducted by Dr. M. B. Stewart, acting coroner, Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock in the north court room. A private investigation will be made.

Mrs. Elizabeth MARSH, 87, died Thursday evening at her home on south Main street following a long illness. Death was due to old age and complications. Mrs. Marsh was the widow of the late James MARSH and was one of the well known pioneers of Fulton county.

Born at Plymouth, Indiana, June 30, 1837, Miss Elizabeth BEATTIE was united in marriage to James L. MARSH, June 4, 1854, and together they developed a large farm in Fulton county near Marstown. They were the parents of eight children, three of whom are dead.

Mr. and Mrs. James MARSH moved to Rochester in 1906 to the residence on south Main street and it was there that he died, August 30, 1909. Mrs. Marsh was a member and a devoted worker of the Baptist church for more than 50 years.

Surviving are five children, Robert B. MARSH of New York, Mrs. Mollie BARKER of Rochester, Mrs. Hannah GOSS of Columbia City, and Misses Emma [MARSH] and Nettie MARSH, at home; 10 grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren; one brother, William BEATTIE, and a sister, Mrs. John McCAUGHEY.

Funeral services from the residence on south Main street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial at the I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Two little children are dead and two other children are suffering from severe injuries following one of the most terrible tragedies to occur in Miami county in years, which happened at 10:15 o'clock Saturday morning, when an automobile driven by a fourteen-year-old boy turned over one-quarter of a mile west of Denver, nine miles north of Peru.

The dead:

Byron SHOEMAKER, 8 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen SHOEMAKER, of Denver.

Rosanna SHOEMAKER, 3 years old, his sister.

The injured:

Lawrence BENEDICT, 14 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay BENEDICT, of Denver, left thigh broken, severe cuts and bruises.

Ray BENEDICT, 13 years old, his cousin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward BENEDICT, of Denver, badly contused on all parts of body.

The little Benedict children had gone early Saturday morning with their father to the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles SHOEMAKER, who live in the town of Denver. Later the little boy said that he "wanted to see the funny paper," so his father allowed him to take his little sister and start walking to their home, which is about one-fourth mile from the town proper.

When the little tots were trudging along the road toward their home a short distance out of the town, Lawrence Benedict, driving his father's Ford touring car and accompanied by his cousin, came along and perceived the little pair.

Lawrence had delivered the early edition of the Sunday papers to residents of Denver and was on his way home. Being through with his work, he stopped and took the little ones into his car to take them home. They were within a few hundred feet of the Shoemaker home when the tragic accident occurred.

The mother of the Shoemaker children, unaware that her babies were in the vicinity, heard the crash as the speeding machine jumped from the road and turned over in a ditch. She left her housework and rushed to the scene. There, amid a cloud of dust and smoke and lying under a twisted mass of wreckage, she found her babies - one dead and other dying. With a horrible cry she swooned, and there rescuers found her. Physicians express fears for her condition as a result of the terrible shock.

Dr. E. S. WAYMIRE and Omar BROWN, both residents of Denver, were driving near the scene in the doctor's car. They heard the collision and were the first to arrive at the tragic scene.

One wheel of the car was resting on the head of the three-year-old child. She was dead when Dr. Waymire picked her up. Her neck was dislocated.

The little boy's heart was still beating when the physician picked him up and carried him into the residence of his parents, but efforts to stop the flow of blood from his mouth, nose and ears were futile. His skull was fractured at the base of the brain, but he died from loss of blood in about five minutes after the accident.

Shortly after Dr. Waymire and Brown arrived a man named WILSON, who lives near the place where the tragedy occurred, came to the scene. They carried the badly injured and partly hysterical boys to their homes. The boy who was driving said that the front wheels buckled and threw the car into the ditch. The Shoemakers, who are well known farmers of the Denver neighborhood, have only one other child, a ten months old baby.

Kenneth PALMER, 23, son of Mrs. Nora PALMER, of Macy, died Saturday night in the hospital at Huntington as the result of burns sustained Friday morning, August 1, when he came into contact with a high tension electric light line while working on a transformer on a power line near that city. The young man, who is well known in Rochester, and who was an employee of the Northern Indiana Power Co., was severely burned about the feet and heart. It was stated by attending physicians that the burns about the heart were responsible for his death. He was so badly burned about the feet, however, that it was found necessary to amputate one of them a day or two after the accident and he probably would have lost the other had he lived.

Besides the mother, two sisters, Misses Miriam [PALMER] and Bernice PALMER, and one half-brother, Frank PALMER, survive. The body was taken to Macy for burial.

Joseph HOLLIS, 60, was kicked to death by a horse at his farm two miles west of Royal Center Tuesday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. Hollis died about fifteen minutes after a fructious animal had planted its hoofs in his abdomen.

Hollis had been plowing a field on his place, the Arnold KISTLER farm on the Star City road, and when it started to rain he discontinued work and was unhitching the team from the plow preparatory to going to the house. He had walked back of one of the horses, which was known to be a bad actor and had kicked at him previously when it let go its rear feet, the hoofs striking Hollis in the revion of the stomach.

Following the recommendation of the coroner of Cook county, Illinois, and the coroner's jury, Rowland CAMPBELL is held for manslaughter in connection with the shooting of Alvin D. EASTERDAY, son of the Culver undertaker. Suit for $10,000 damages is also being brought against Campbell and his concern for the support of the widow and children of Alvin Easterday.

Attorney W. O. OSBORN, of Culver, who is acting for the family, attended the inquest at Chicago. He reports that Easterday was absolved from blame at the inquest.

The story told by Campbell was that his store had been robbed on several occasions about the time of this incident and that he was on guard against another robbery in the middle of the night. Easterday stopped and looked in the window of the store and Campbell thought he was planning a robbery. He walked up to him and shoved a revolver up to his abdomen and commanded him to move on. He says that Easterday struck him a blow with his fist. Campbell then fired the fatal shot.

The place where the shooting took place was about four blocks from the Marshall Field store.

Some hotly contested criminal and damage cases are in prospect against Campbell. A large number of witnesses will testify that Alvin Easterday lived an honorable and straight-forward life.

Alvin Easterday, who was brought up at Culver, left there some years ago and has been located at Logansport until the last few years when he lived in Chicago. He was a cousin of Jack EASTERDAY, of this city.

Last August he moved to Rochester purchasing and operating the "One Horse Grocery" where he made his home until his demise. The wife, Mrs. Lillion HILBOURNE, survives.

Brief funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon from the Hoover chapel after which the body will be shipped to Chicago for burial.

Tuesday, August 26, 1924

Two pioneer residents of Rochester and Fulton county passed to their rewards Monday night with the deaths of Newton M. IZZARD, 71, life long resident of Rochester, and Ancil B. TOWNSEND, 80, well known farmer who died at his farm home one mile east of Mt. Olive where he had spent all of his life.

The death of Mr. Izzard came as a severe shock to his family and the community as he had been enjoying excellent health up to the past two or three days and then he had merely complained of a minor ailment, thinking nothing of the fatal illness impending.

Mr. Izzard's death occurred some time during the night Monday or early Tuesday morning as he was found dead in bed at seven o'clock at his home on West 10th street. Death was due to apoplexy, according to pronouncement made Tuesday by Coroner Dow HAIMBAUGH.

Born in Rochester, November 7, 1853, a son of Jabus and Marguerite IZZARD, Newton

IZZARD became one of the prominent cigar manufacturers of the city and was so engaged when he died. Russell BARTS, 22, died at 6 o'clock Thursday morning at the city hospital in Peru from injuries received last Friday in an automobile accident near the Austin MAUS corner on the Peru road just north of Mexico.

Barts with his brother, Howard BARTS, and son, Pete [BARTS], three years of age, were en route to Peru last Friday when a Chicago couple, driving a heavy touring car, backed off the side road at the corner above mentioned directly into the path of the truck.

The truck hit the car with great force and the two Rochester men and boy were injured. All three were taken to Peru where they received medical attention. Russell Barts was cut about the head and it is believed that it was this injury that resulted in his death. His brother and son received only minor injuries, consisting of cuts and bruises.

The truck was badly damaged in the crash; but the touring car that it struck was not damaged and the Chicago couple resumed their trip. The Chicago man declared that he had backed his car around in order to read a sign on a post and said that the truck was being driven at too great a speed to be stopped. The Rochester men declared that they were not driving fast.

Russell Barts was born in Plymouth February 3, 1902, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph BARTS, who now live in Fulton county north of Rochester. He is one of the firm of BARTS BROTHERS, who four years ago purchased the local fertilizer plant north of the city. Besides the parents, three brothers, Howard [BARTS], Ralph [BARTS] and Paul BARTS, a sister Miss Ruth BARTS, the widow and one son survive.

He had been in good health until within the past six weeks when he started to show signs of failing and last Tuesday afternoon he suffered a severe stroke of paralysis, from which he could not recover.

Born in Shockton county, Ohio, August 10, 1934, John Richmond moved to Indiana early in life and spent most of his years in and around Mentone and Etna Green.

Twenty-two years ago, he retired from active business pursuits and moved to Rochester to make his home with his son. In January, 1924, his wife preceded him. Two sons, Charles RICHMOND, of Rochester, and George RICHMOND, of Ft. Wayne, survive.

Mrs. George BIGGS of this city, a cousin of the dead youth, learned of the death Monday night. Relatives also live at North Manchester. Russell was well known here as he lived with his parents on East Ninth street until about six years ago when they move to LaPorte and then to Niles.

The crime is the result of liquor. Both Olinger and his murderer lived in the same neighborhood in Niles.

Henry STROUP, the police story goes, left his home and went to a store not far away for cigars. He was under the influence of liquor, it was charged. He met Olinger's younger brother and, the lad says, showered him with a burst of profanity. The boy ran home.

Stroup, on his way home, aproached an automobile parked in front of the B. D. OLINGER residence. The car was occupied by Russell OLINGER and Ray McBRIDE preparing for a pleasure motor ride with girl friends.

Stroup, it was said, again broke into a profane rage and cursed the boy occupants of the machine. As they stepped from the car with purpose, it was said, to avenge the insults, Stroup drew a revolver and fired three bullets at Russell, all taking effect. The boy died instantly.

While Olinger was being carried into the home of his father, Stroup ran home. He threw away the revolver and then walked to the police station, where he surrendered to officers. He was taken to St. Joseph, Mich., last night several hours after the shooting and is held there for trial on the murder charge.

Daniel AGNEW, 87, a pioneer of this community and at one time one of the leading men of the county, died sometime Sunday night at the home of Fred L. MILLER, his nephew, with whom he made his home. Death was due to paralysis. He suffered a light stroke several years ago but recovered and outside of the usual infirmities resulting from old age had been in good health.

On Sunday he had been active about the house as usual and as was his custom went to the bathroom about 2:30 to take a hot bath. Mr. Miller, who came home later, noticed a light in the bathroom but thought nothing of it as it was Mr. Agnew's habit of spending some time bathing. Early Monday morning Mrs. Miller noticed the steam coming out of the bathroom transom and an investigation led to the finding of Mr. Agnew's body. It is thought he must have passed away suddenly shortly after he went into the bathroom.

Mr. Agnew of recent years since his retirement from the Rochester Telephone Company had spent considerable time writing stories of early Indiana history and many newspapers, including those at Indianapolis, had carried his articles. Those of the early days in Winamac and Rochester were particularly interesting and attracted wide attention. He was recognized as an authority on early history of northern Indiana.

Daniel Agnew was born in Ripley county, Indiana, Nov. 27, 1838, the son of Joseph B. and Louisa M. AGNEW. His father was veteran of the Mexican war, having lost a leg at Buena Vista. In 1850 the family removed to Winamac, where he died Dec. 23, 1895. Daniel was the oldest of twelve children born to the union. He obtained a common school education and until he reached his majority remained upon the farm.

From 1857 until 1860 he was employed as a civil engineer in railway construction and swampland work. He served as surveyor of Pulaski County for one term and then for a year worked in a telegraph office after which in 1864 he came to Rochester and accepted employment as deputy auditor. In 1866 he was elected auditor of Fulton county and re-elected in 1870, serving in the office twelve years altogether.

After leaving the court house he joined a partnership with Charles W. CAFFYN and Samuel KEELY, which firm built the gravel road north and south of Rochester on the Michigan Road and for a number of years ran these as toll roads until they were taken over by the state. Later he was active in the founding and promoting of Rochester College, then became interested in the Rochester Telephone Company, serving as secretary until about two years ago when he resigned.

He married Miss Emily L. MILLER Feb. 25, 1862, in Rochester. She was the daughter of Hon. Hugh MILLER, a teacher and a leader in educational work and politics in the county in its early days.

Mr. Agnew was a democrat in politics, a Mason, and a member of the Presbyterian church, and he and Mrs. Agnew from the first occupied a prominent place among the people of the community. Mrs. Agnew died several years ago at their residence on South Main street. Shortly after her death Mr. Agnew went to the Fred L. Miller home where he lived.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Lizzie KEYES, and a brother, Frank AGNEW, both of Winamac and two brothers who live in the southern part of the state. Fred MILLER of this city, Mrs. Marguerite MILLER of this city and Hugh MILLER, formerly of Washington, D.C., were related also.

Funeral Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Fred L. MILLER residence with burial in the I.O.O.F. cemetery. Rev. D. S. PERRY will officiate.

Mrs. Thomas MOORE, 86, who lived all of her life on a farm two and one-half miles east of the city, until three years ago, died Saturday night in South Bend at the home of her son, Charles [MOORE]. Death was due to old age.

The deceased whose maiden name was Julia Ann ALSPACH, was the daughter of Samuel and Jane ALSPACH and was one of 11 children born to this union.

Mrs. Moore is survived by her son and five sisters, Mrs. Elmer MILLER and Mrs. Arminta BIGGS of this city, Mary [ALSPACH] and Elizabeth ALSPACH of Akron, and Mrs. Sarah MILLER of Peru.

The funeral was held at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon from the United Brethren church in this city, of which organization Mrs. Moore was a member. Burial was made in the I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Frank BROWN, 64, popularly known in his boyhood days as "Glimmer" [BROWN], died at his home in Warsaw of heart trouble early Tuesday morning. He had been ill for the last two years.

Brown came to this county with his parents, James and Elizabeth BROWN, from Ohio when he was a lad. After finishing school he learned the printer's trade in one of the local shops. Afterwards he traveled all over the country working in various shops returning to work at Rochester often, but for the last fifteen years has resided in Warsaw.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Frank [BROWN], of Warsaw, and Paul [BROWN], of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Newton IZZARD, of this city. Mr. Brown was a member of the Warsaw Baptist church.

Funeral arrangements later.

It was stated in Monday's issue of the Sentinel that the late Daniel AGNEW was a democrat. According to relatives this was wrong as they stated that he had been a Republican for the last 30 years. Mr. Agnew was originally a democrat and was auditor of the county for two terms as such but changed his politics in the campaign of 1896.

The will of the late Daniel AGNEW, pioneer citizen of this city, has been filed with county clerk Robert MILLER. It shows that at the time of his death Mr. Agnew was worth between $20,000 and $25,000 which it is said is a mere shadow of his fortune at one time. The will was one of the longest ever recorded in the local court covering eight pages and had three condicils.

Mr. Agnew's last testament was originally drawn on October 27, 1919. After his wife's death he added a codicil and again after the failure of a Rochester business enterprise in which he was heavily interested and just a short time before his death another codicil was drawn in which he bequeathed all of his property to Fred MILLER after a monument had been erected over his grave.

In the original will several nephews were named to receive Mr. Agnew's property. The last testament revealed that at one time Mr. Agnew had had trouble in his family and because of this he cut all of the heirs of the Agnew family. Following is the manner in which Mr. Agnew disclosed his family trouble. "Not unmindful of the fact that I have heirs bearing the name of Agnew, my brothers, Joseph [AGNEW] and Samuel [AGNEW], I now cut them off because of their characteristic unspeakable perfidy in business relations with my father and mother and myself."

Mrs. James BURNS has received word of the death of her brother, George HALTERMAN, 61, which took place at his home in Wayne, Arkansas on November 4th.

Evidently with suicidal intent, growing out of a prolonged period of ill health accompanied with the decay of mental facilities, Mrs. George BEEBER of Argos, aged mother of Miss Belle BEEBER of Rochester, Thursday morning stepped in front of a Nickle Plate passenger train bound for Rochester at the Pickle Factory crossing a block from her home, and was knocked down and killed, the cars passing over her body, severing it. The train crew picked up the body and it was taken to an Argos undertaking parlor.

The incident occurred about 6:30 o'clock the time at which train No. 21 would be leaving Argos. The death was unavoidable, as the report of the train's conductor, "Pat" QUIGLEY, stated. According to the report, the woman was waiting behind a box car, and when the engine was only twenty feet or so away, she threw herself in front of it. Piloting the train at the time of the tragedy was Engineer Charles FULTZ.

Mrs. Beeber and her husband had been residents of Argos for ten or twelve years. Their home is in the east part of town close to the Nickle Plate tracks. The Beebers formerly lived in Tiosa.

Mrs. Ralph SHONK, 29, mother of three small children, who lives on a farm one and one-half miles northwest of Bruce Lake Station, committed suicide about noon Wednesday by taking strychnine. Despondency over ill health is given by relatives as the cause for the rash act. Mrs. Shonk had had trouble with her stomcah for the past year, which did not seem to improve with treatment.

The strychnine had been purchased by Mr. Shonk to kill rats. It had been placed in a cabinet in the kitchen out of the reach of the children. Mrs. Shonk had a bad spell Wednesday morning, and despite the requests of her husband not to wash she continued with her labor. About 10:45 she suffered another attack and she then decided to end it all.

Taking the strychnine from its resting place at 11 o'clock Mrs. Shonk drained the vial and calmly walked into the sitting room where her husband was reading and told him of her act. A doctor was called immediately. Emetics were given but to no avail. Before the doctor arrived Mrs. Shonk had passed away.

The deceased [Marie WILSON] was born in Montgomery county on April 9, 1895, and was one of seven children born to Mr. and Mrs. John WILSON. Twenty-two years ago her parents moved to this county and settled on a farm near Kewanna. Mrs. Shonk had been married 10 years. Dr. Dow HAIMBAUGH, coroner, was called after the demise of Mrs. Shonk, but has not as yet rendered his report concerning her death. Mr. Shonk Wednesday stated that the amount of poison taken by his wife must have been very small as he had used some of it out of the ten cent bottle on two different occasions to kill rats.
